

16 DAYS LUXURY NORWEGIAN FJORDS & SVALBARD CRUISE - COPENHAGEN TO LONGYEARBYEN

From Copenhagen to the heart of the Arctic, follow Norway's rugged west coast past the historic Runde Lighthouse and its puffin-burrowed cliffs, before heading to the far north. Hike to the legendary Torghatten mountain, meet sled dogs, and experience Tromsø, gateway to the Arctic. Then spend a week in the wild isolation of Svalbard, exploring on hikes, by Zodiac, and by kayak.

ITINERARY

Day 1 - Copenhagen

Effortlessly cool and built to be livable, Copenhagen is a green, clean Scandinavian metropolis where cycling is the default mode of transport and the colourful warehouses of Nyhavn frame a pastoral waterfront. The Little Mermaid statue, inspired by Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tale, is the city's most quietly self-assured landmark. Danish smørrebrød and a constellation of Michelin-starred restaurants make Copenhagen one of Europe's most rewarding food cities.

Day 2 - Day at sea

Days at sea are the perfect opportunity to relax, unwind, and pursue personal interests, whether visiting the gym, the spa, or simply watching for whales from deck. These blue sea days offer an ideal balance to busy days spent exploring ashore.

Day 3 - Fosnavåg

Fosnavag is a maritime town on Bergsoya island in western Norway's archipelago, south of Alesund in the Heroy municipality. Nearby Runde island hosts one of Norway's largest bird cliffs, with puffins and sea eagles among the many species found there. The Heroy Coastal Museum traces the region's rich trading heritage.

Day 4 - Bronnoysund

Norway's advertising slogan is that it is "powered by nature". One trip to Bronnoysund and it's easy to see why. This is quintessential Norway, vast, wild and beautiful, with a few surprises to keep you on your toes! Arrival by sea in Bronnoysund is a bit of an experience. Norway is famously the land of the midnight sun, and with Bronnoysund enjoying the favourable position of being just beneath the Arctic Circle, early morning arrival is both eerie and awe inspiring. The otherworldliness is amplified by the sun shining through the giant hole in Torghatten Mountain. The vast (258 metre) granite mountain is pierced right through centre by a natural hole. Never forgetting that Norway is the country of pixies and trolls, local legend has the answer to this scientifically unexplainable phenomenon: it was created when an arrow ripped through the troll king's hat, which was thrown into the air to protect a fleeing girl. The hat turned to stone, and the arrow's hole is preserved there to this day. It is possible to walk through it and enjoy the fabulous views beyond. The rest of Bronnoysund's surroundings are no less spectacular. The 13,000-plus nearby islands include the Vega Archipelago, a cluster of 6,500 islands that enjoy UNESCO World Heritage Site status. The outstanding universal value of the islands is seen not only in stone age indications but in the unique cultural landscape (particularly that of Eider duck farming) that has provided at least 1,500 islanders with income from the 9th century.

Day 5 - Svolvaer

Salt and pepper coloured mountains erupt from the ground behind the pretty port of Svolvaer, which opens up the extraordinary beauty of the Lofoten Islands. You'll never quite get over the majesty of the mountainous backdrop as you explore, although with natural wonders like the rippling Northern Lights, the Midnight Sun, and cruising pods of orcas to admire, there are plenty of distractions. The Gulf Stream shuffles warmer air here, so the climate is surprisingly mild considering how northerly the town is. Wander the compact streets, to see the morning's haul of fish and shrimp on-sale in the harbour, and watch sightseeing boats heading off to some of Norway's most incredible natural scenery.

Day 6 - Tromsø

Tromsø, at 69 degrees north, is the capital of Arctic Norway and the most reliable urban base for northern lights viewing in the world. The city sits on an island between fjords and mountains, its student population supporting a disproportionately rich cultural life, and the Midnight Sun runs from 20 May to 22 July -- a period of constant daylight as extraordinary as the winter darkness that precedes it.

Day 7 - Cruise & Explore Bear Island (Svalbard)

Svalbard's southernmost island, Bear Island sits roughly halfway between Spitsbergen and Norway's North Cape, its name going back to Dutch explorer Willem Barentsz's 1596 visit. Two-thirds of the island is flat plain with shallow freshwater lakes and Ramsar Wetland, protected as a Nature Reserve and Important Bird Area. The steep cliffs south of Sorhamna support thousands of breeding seabirds including Black-legged Kittiwakes, Little Auks, and Brunnich's Guillemots.

Day 8 - Svalbard Southern Region

Svalbard's west coast, warmed by the Gulf Stream, is the most accessible part of the archipelago and holds its most visited settlements -- Longyearbyen and the Russian mining town of Barentsburg. The fjords of Isfjorden and Hornsund reveal geological formations of extraordinary complexity, and the glaciers descending to the sea are among the most dramatic and accessible in the High Arctic.

Day 9 - Svalbard Southern Region

Svalbard's west coast, warmed by the Gulf Stream, is the most accessible part of the archipelago and holds its most visited settlements -- Longyearbyen and the Russian mining town of Barentsburg. The fjords of Isfjorden and Hornsund reveal geological formations of extraordinary complexity, and the glaciers descending to the sea are among the most dramatic and accessible in the High Arctic.

The fjords of Isfjorden and Hornsund reveal geological formations of extraordinary complexity, and the glaciers descending to the sea are among the most dramatic and accessible in the High Arctic.

Day 11 - Svalbard Northern Region

Svalbard's northern region, less moderated by the Norwegian Current than the west coast, is wilder and icier. The Nordaust Svalbard Nature Reserve encompasses spectacular fjords, glaciers, walrus haul-outs, and bird cliffs on Nordaustlandet and the outer islands. Ice conditions determine accessibility, making every voyage into this region an expedition in the genuine sense.

Days 15 - 16 - Longyearbyen & Post Cruise

Longyearbyen is the largest settlement in Svalbard and the seat of Norwegian administration for the archipelago, with the Svalbard Museum covering the natural history and exploitation of the islands. The UNIS centre hosts a collaboration of Norwegian universities offering the northernmost higher education in the world. The harbour is blocked by ice in winter, and remnants of former mining activity are visible throughout the town.
