PIECES OF EIGHT PANAMA CRUISE

Pure theatre The National Geographic guest speaker, Hernan Arauz, is a leading authority on the people, history and wildlife of Panama. Conceived during the 1960 Trans Darien Gap expedition, Hernan is a great speaker (with a voice like a Spanish version of Sean Connery) and his breadth of knowledge was quite extraordinary. In my ignorance I had no idea of just how wild, important and interesting the history of Panama is from the arrival of the first Conquistadors to the failure of the Scottish colony which led to the union of Scotland and England, and the dominance that the canal has had over the politics of the whole region since the French first tried (and failed) to dig the canal. Aside from his great knowledge and communication skills, he was a fantatstic story teller. "_There was a buccaneer (Not a pirate - in the Caribbean they were Buccaneers) called George Gayney. He was part of a band trying to make their way across the Isthmus of Panama in about 1679. He had to cross a river in flood and drowned while carrying a bag containing three hundre Pieces of Eight._ _300 years later a metal detectorist discovered 300 Pieces of Eight in almost exactly the same spo_ t" There followed a big pause. Then Hernan reaches inside his short and pulls out what looks like a medallion on a chain: _"And this is one of them!"_ Thank You Hernan. I now have a pile of books about Panama to read.
