WHALES, WILDLIFE & WINES - A VOYAGE FROM PORTSMOUTH TO MALAGA

Join us aboard the all-suite MS Hebridean Sky for a voyage that will take us along Spain's rugged northern coast to the remarkable Galicia region and around the Iberian coast to Malaga calling into Portugal and Morocco along the way. This ten night voyage has been designed to appeal to those who enjoy being at sea and have a passion for the natural world and we are delighted to have joined forces once again with ORCA, a UK based whale and dolphin conservation charity dedicated to the long-term protection of whales, dolphins and porpoises and their habitats worldwide. As part of ORCA's ongoing education work, Ocean Conservationists will be joining us on board, delivering exciting wildlife experiences and innovative education programmes, teaching guests about the marine environment whilst at the same time collecting critical scientific data about some of the richest habitats in the ocean. We will be sailing through one of the world's top five best whale and dolphin locations as we pass through the English Channel and down into the Bay of Biscay, a rich feeding ground and an important migration route for many species, such as fin whales - the second largest animal on the planet. Large schools of fish are found here feeding on these microscopic plants, which not only provides the perfect pit-stop for migrating fin whales, but also the perfect habitat for a variety of other whale and dolphin species, such as the common dolphin, striped dolphin, Risso's dolphin, sei whales and many more. Journeying towards Spain, we will be met by two deep-sea canyons in which you can find the wonderful world of beaked whales. These elusive mammals are deep diving specialists and we will keep our eyes peeled for the deepest diving mammal on the planet - the Cuvier's beaked whale. In addition to the marvellous marine wildlife we will encounter, we have designed our itinerary to ensure that there are many more natural world wonders to be experienced. Take the opportunity to visit Portugal's Sado Estuary Natural Reserve from where you can observe colonies of flamingos, spoonbills, herons, cormorants and many other bird species and also Spain's UNESCO World Heritage Site of Donana National Park, an important wetlands area and home to over 200 species of birds as well as mammals including the red deer. For garden enthusiasts we will meander through the Galician countryside visiting the most beautiful Pazos and their gardens and whilst in Tangier our exploration will include a visit to the newly created Donabo Gardens, a botanical oasis by the sea. Other highlights include stepping into the pilgrimage cathedral of Santiago de Compostela, exploring the timeless beauty of Evora and opportunities to sample the local wines in the Galicia and Alentejo regions. It is difficult to imagine a better time than September for our journey, whale and bird migrations from north to south are taking place increasing further the possibility to spot wildlife during our voyage. Just about everything is as perfect as it can be, from the comfortable temperatures to the relatively crowd free sites and our schedule has been planned to ensure that the balance is just right between exploring ashore, relaxing on board and time at leisure for individual exploration. We hope you can join us and the ORCA Ocean Conservationists to discover the wonderful marine and wildlife for yourself on what promises to be an unforgettable trip.

ITINERARY

Day 1 Portsmouth, England.

Embark the MS Hebridean Sky this afternoon. Transfers will be provided from Portsmouth Harbour Railway Station at a fixed time.

Day 2 Lyme Bay & Dartmouth.

At dawn we will be sailing through Lyme Bay and staff will be on deck as we look for common dolphins that can be found in these waters. Later this morning we will sail along the River Dart to our anchorage off the town of Dartmouth. Here you can choose to spend a couple of hours exploring the town or maybe join a Zodiac ride along the river and see the castles and river fortifications whilst keeping an eye out for wildlife. Over lunch we sail out to the English Channel where the shallow waters are home to several species of whale, dolphin and porpoise. Regular sightings in these waters include minke whales, common dolphins, bottlenose dolphins and harbour porpoises. A few lucky spotters could even see some rarer visitors, including the second largest animal on the planet - the fin whale, long-finned pilot whales, Risso's dolphin and even the iconic humpback whale. Keep an eye out for playful bow-riding dolphins who leap in the waves made by the ship as we sail through these waters.

Day 3 Shelf Edge, Bay of Biscay.

Overnight we have sailed into the Bay of Biscay which is one of the most exciting areas in the world for whale and dolphin watching. A dramatic change in water depth from 150 to 4000 metres creates the perfect mixing bowl of nutrients that promote large algal blooms. These microscopic plants are the catalyst for drawing in ocean giants, who feed on the large schools of fish sustained by this explosion of life. We spend the day cruising in these rich feeding grounds, keeping a lookout for fin whales, sei whales, minke whales, long-finned pilot whales, Risso's dolphins, bottlenose dolphins, striped dolphins and common dolphins. Around one-third of the world's whale and dolphin species can be sighted in Biscay - with orca and blue whales being among the occasional visitors, meaning it is always an exciting area to watch for wildlife.

Day 4 Canyons.

Arrive this morning in the southern Bay of Biscay. Around 2-30 kilometres off the coast of Spain, lies the Santander and Torrelavega Canyons which are both more than twice the depth of the Grand canyon. These colossal trenches are the perfect habitat for some of the most elusive and interesting whale and dolphin species, such as the Cuvier's beaked whale. This mindboggling species is the deepest diving mammal on the planet, they can hold their breath for an astonishing 3 hours and 42 minutes, and dive to an incredible 2,992 metres. Other beaked whales sighted here include the Sowerby's beaked whale, northern bottlenose whale and True's beaked whale, as well as other marine mammal species like the pilot whale and sperm whale. So keep your eyes peeled for some of the most exciting and unusual species you might spot.

Day 5 Whale Watching & Ferrol, Spain.

Spend the morning cruising along the northern Iberian Coast which is home to around 22 whale and dolphin species including the harbour porpoise, common dolphin, bottlenose dolphin, and Risso's dolphin. Several members of the iconic "blackfish" have also been sighted in these waters, including regular sightings of the longfinned pilot whale and occasional sightings of orca and false killer whale. Further offshore species such as the striped dolphin, Cuvier's beaked whale, Sowerby's beaked whale, sperm whale, minke and fin whale can be spotted. Over lunch we arrive in Galicia at the port of Ferrol from where we head to the Estaca de Bares, the northernmost headland in Spain. Between August and November this is on the route of the seabird migration south with thousands of birds passing each day. Maybe also walk to the observation station or the lighthouse. Alternatively spend the afternoon in Ferrol which grew following the construction of a naval base in 1750. Explore the historic streets of the Magdalena neighbourhood where we find the Cathedral of St Julian, the town hall and local market.

Day 6 Vilagarcia de Arousa & Santiago de Compostela.

Alternatively, visit Santiago de Compostela, the capital of the autonomous community of Galicia. The city's cathedral is the destination of the important Medieval pilgrimage routes which are still walked today. For those keen to walk some of the route there will be the chance to hike a section before transferring to Santiago. Otherwise transfer directly to the site where we will visit the Conventual de San Francisco, the Faculty of Medicine and the world-famous Plaza del Obradoiro. Inside the cathedral, we will visit the Romanic crypt and see the facade of Platerias, the Quintana Plaza, House of Parra, the facade of Azabacheria, and the facade of San Martin Pinario.

Alentejo is a highly respected wine region traditionally producing red wines from the Tempranillo and Trincadeira grapes. We will enjoy lunch in a vineyard including a tasting before we return to the MS Hebridean Sky.
